BREED THEATER.

The Shaughraun, Superb Irish Picture, Presented in Three Regis.

It is doubtful if the Breed ever presented a more beautiful Irish picture than The Shaughraun, Bouol-cault's world-famous drama of the same name. Each and every scene was made in Ireland and the glimpses of the ruined castles and the surrounding country are not equalled save by the beautiful Killarney lakes, and the gargeous scenes along the rock-bound shore where the surf breaks in foamy spray, dashing half-way up the cliffs. There is a breezy story full of dash and excitement, played by the famous O'Kalem cast, useded by Jack Clark and Gene Gauntier, 300 feet of film being covered by this magnificent story, which is augmented by the splendid singing of Miss Marguerite Shea in A Little Bunch of Shamrock.

Shamrock.
There is a wonderful Biograph story of labor difficulties and their expression, and screaming comedy by the Vitagraph Co. entitled How Fatty Made Good. Two matinees for Saturday, the first beginning at 1.30 p. m. DAVIS THEATER.

Last Day of the Raiders of the Mexican Border in Three Reels.

The crowds that have been drawn to this cosy playhouse the last half of this week, give ample proof as to the prerits of the show. The Raiders of the Mexican Border, a big military feature photoplay in three parts portrays the fighting between the Mexican and the American ranchers along the Mexican border, a thrilling picture costing a lot of time and money to produce. O'Brien & Buckley are scoring a big hit with their jokes and musical selections. Kelly & Adams, two good old Irish entertainers, are also making good and Alex Wilson, the comedy ventriloquist, gets his share of laughter. Altogether this is one of the best bills yet offered at the Davis. The first half of next week Parsifal, a masterpiece in 3 reels, will be shown here.

Next Week at the Auditorium. Another feature bill will grace the boards at this popular playhouse the first half of next week. Gilmore, Kinky & Glimore, a clever comedy trio, will appear in a rip roaring singing, Mrs. Otho O'Sullivan is in Taunton, Mass., called there by the death of a function of life from start to finish and will surely make 2 hit. ### LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Another Solution.

Mr. Editor: May I submit a solution Mr. Editor: May I submit a solution of the problem sent by Inquirer, and published in the Bulletin Feb. 18?

"If an article costs $1.00 twholesale, for what must it be sold to gain 10 per cent. after allowing 22 per cent. for the cost of doing business?"

The cost of any article is 100 per cent. The wholesale price of this article is only part of the cost, as there is still the expense of operating the business to be reckoned in the cost.

Then let $1.00 equal 78 per cent. of

Then let $1.00 equal 78 per cent. of total cost; 100 per cent. equal $1.282, cost of article ($1.00 divided by 78). As the gain or loss is always a percentage of the cost 10 per cent. of $1.282 equals $1.28 gain: $1.28 plus .128 equals $1.41, selling price. M. W. B.

Let those who will their pages my With fine-phrased lore and story. Let wise tongues prate the national fate without this Founder's alory. With finished honors laud who cas it ing my song for an honest Man.

Let those who write in figure trite
Pay tribute warm and tender;
Let sages tell what wees befell
Our nation's first defender.
Then show how well his race re race
I sing my song for a fighting Man.

Let poet's lays with depth of praise

The load his neart was bearing.
Let woholars trace his life's full span;
I sing my song for a human Man.

Today a need where wrong and greed
Have sapped the nation's living,
Is men grown strong who dare to long
To be best known for giving.
Today look back where growth began,
And sing with me for a God-made

WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY, A nation pauses in her enward rush.
Forgets awhile her strife for gold—
her care—
To stand before a carven cradle old
And kiss the baby face enframed
there.

No vision of his later life she sees.

No Valley Forge, or frosty Delawars.
Yet, in her hand a wreath of laurel leaves
To lay beside the baby sleeping there.
